

Web site

Chase, C. (1997). Playing by nature's paradigm: Systems science and the Grateful Dead. Retrieved
Author (Date) Title
from <http://artsites.ucsc.edu/GDead/agdl/chase.htm>
URL

Section of a Web Site

Shepard, L. (2014, April 29). Study highlights economic impact of region's health care sector.
Author Date Title of Section
Portland Business Alliance. Retrieved from <http://portlandalliance.com>
Title of Web Site URL

Citing Authors

When citing authors, give only surnames and initials:

Garcia, J. J.

Two to six authors are listed this way:

Garcia, J. J., Weir, R. H., Lesh, P. C., Kreutzmann, W., McKernon, R., & Howard, K.

For more than six authors, use et al after the first author's name:

Garcia, J. J. et al.

In-Text Citations

When citing in the text, include the author and year of publication:
(Johnson, 2004).

When citing a quote in the text, include the page number as well:

(McKernan, 2011, p. 192).

Additional Guidelines

- Capitalize only the first title, subtitle and any proper nouns for books and articles:
Occupational therapy and dementia care: A survey of practice in the Republic of Ireland.
- References is centered at the top of your works cited page.
- Entries are in alphabetical order by the author's last name and double-spaced.

For more information see the 7th edition of A Writer's Reference by Diana Hacker and Nancy Sommers. Several copies are available in the library (808.042 H25 2011).

Please contact the library if you have any questions.

Shoen Library
503.534.7040 / reference@marylhurst.edu